IAA Europe Conference in Bratislava 22 November 2019

On 22 and 23 November 2019 IAA Europe gathers for its 15th General Assembly in Bratislava/Slovakia in the Gallery UMELKA, the same building where citizens launched the civic movement Public Against Violence in November 1989, part of the so-called “Velvet Revolution” and helping to restore freedom and democracy in Slovakia.

This gathering and accompanying conference takes place upon invitation of the Slovak Union of Visual Arts (SUVA) and will focus on the legal and social statutes of artists in Europe, more specifically on the national implementations of the Directive on Copyright in the Digital Single Market, formally the Directive (EU) 2019/790 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 17 April 2019 on copyright and related rights in the Digital Single Market and amending Directives 96/9/EC and 2001/29/EC, and its effect on the status and income of visual artists in Europe.

IAA Europe wants to discuss the consequences the EU directive will have for visual artists and artists associations in Europe, be it in EU member states or EFTA/EEA countries. What can we do now to make sure the directive is being implemented in favor of the rights holders/artists, and more specifically also of visual artists? This get-together is very much about knowledge exchange, which remains very necessary or becomes even more so after the adoption of the strongly discussed directive and with its national implementations ahead in the next years.

Which part, or Article, of the final directive is most important and why? (How) Will it increase the artist economy and strengthen their rights in practice in the best way possible? (How) Can collective agreements serve as a solution to close the “value gap” between tech-giants and artists getting fair remuneration for the use of their artworks?

The political decision process of the directive had a strong focus on the general public, and within the arts mostly on other branches than on the visual arts. So, we want to put IAA Europe members and everybody interested stronger on the track: How can the national implementations of the directive, that are now due, strengthen the position of visual artists? Are there possibly opportunities not everyone is aware of at the moment, which may be worth discussing and sharing? What can artist organizations do to influence and what solutions will be good for the authors/artists?

Four perspectives shall be covered with speakers and participants:

- A summary of the legal implications of the different articles of the copyright directive
- A view on possible networking and knowledge transfer amongst visual artists associations in Europe in the process of the implementations of the directive
- A regional perspective from an EU member state: an exemplary picture on the status quo and hurdles in the implementation
- A regional perspective from the EFTA/EEA countries (an EFTA/EEA country): how is artistic practice affected by the copyright directive in those countries and what consequences are to be expected once the directive is fully in effect?

Conference organized by IAA Europe, Slovak Union of Visual Arts, Internationale Gesellschaft der Bildenden Künste (IGBK) and Norske Billedkunstnere (NBK)
